A WHOLE WORLD WAITING TO BE DISCOVERED

Despite what cruising habits might suggest, the world's oceans do not begin and end with St Tropez and St Barths. Leaving the beaten track and heading to the Indian Ocean this winter, the 196'/60m Cloud 9 proves there's a whole world of possibility.

BY MIRIAM CAIN

THE MALDIVES

The traditional cruising grounds of the Mediterranean and Caribbean have long attracted the yachting crowd, but those wishing for a little more adventure can now explore the lesser-chartered waters of more exotic and remote cruising grounds as owners take their yachts to explore the unknown.

As the majority of the world's charter yachts head off to the Caribbean later this year, the adventurous Cloud 9 is venturing further afield to discover the lesser-known charms of the Indian Ocean. From the ocean idylls of the Seychelles and the Maldives, to the dramatic coastlines of Thailand, all three cruising grounds offer uninhabited islands, pristine beaches, turquoise waters, amazing wildlife and sheltered anchorages. They also promise the added pleasure of world-class resort facilities, the likes of One & Only Rheeti Rah in the Maldives, the Maia Resort in the Seychelles or the recently opened Six Senses Soneva Kiri in the Gulf of Thailand.

STEP ON BOARD

Launched just over a year ago, Cloud 9 was conceived as the ultimate charter yacht. She is already sought-after on the charter market following her debut in the Caribbean last winter. She is a yacht that invites barefoot comfort, albeit with six-star standards and a flawlessly efficient and friendly crew. Designed by Andrew Winch and her Australian owners with ultra-luxurious yet homely beach-house living in mind, she exudes quality in every detail. As such, plush carpets are soft as sand underfoot and their faint ripple design echoes the subtle wave-detailing on doors and wood paneling. Continuing the theme, rich fabrics span from cool beige to coconut brown and tan to every shade of sky-and-sea blue on deck – highlighted by a distinctive navy hull. She is the perfect vessel for exploring the island idylls as you step ashore from the laid-back interior and deck design to the white sandy beaches. First stop, the Maldives.

ONE & ONLY REETHI RAH, MALDIVES

MALDIVES

Perfect for those wishing to drift Robinson Crusoe style, the Maldives comprise a string of coral atolls that are home to 1,190 deserted islands. Although they have a combined landmass of only 115 square miles/300 square kilometres, they span more than 41,500 square miles/107,500 square kilometres. Around one in 10 of the coral islands are inhabited (generally by luxury resorts), but the ultimate way to escape to some of the truly deserted islands is aboard Cloud 9, on which luxuries abound. Discover island upon island surrounded by crystal-clear lagoons encrusted with reefs. You can easily flit from resort to resort, en route exploring the outer islands and remote dive sites and game-fish grounds that are inaccessible to most.

The Maldives lends itself to a variety of activities, from relaxing and sun-bathing on the beach to diving, surfing and fishing, but the glut of water sports equipment on Cloud 9 will more than fill your charter with adrenalin-fuelled activity. Kayaks, jet boats, water-skis, a wakeboard, towables and snorkeling equipment vie for your attention, and two Seabobs are the icing on the cake, whisking you through the water like a dolphin, scooping you under the surf, or plunging you deep to dive.

After all that activity, the decks beckon with iced flannels to cool your sun-bronzed brow, a cinema of decadent proportions for movie buffs, a tray of freshly mixed cocktails and a shaded aft-deck treat of gourmet delights – a light enticement before refreshing yourself in your cabin (there are seven on board, including a truly vast owner's cabin with private observation lounge) in preparation for canapés and a three-course dinner. Speaking of food, as you would expect on a superyacht, only the very finest, freshest ingredients find their way on board. From melt-in-the-mouth sushi to fresh-minted strawberries splashed with a balsamic reduction, each meal is a masterpiece from chef Markus Gary that can be customized to your preferences to give you a real flavor of the area you're cruising.

BREAKFAST ABOARD CLOUD 9
© JEROME KELAGOPIAN

For the ultimate island fantasy, the crew can set up cushions and loungers on your own deserted island, while your chef Markus barbecues the catch of the day as the sun dips gently on the horizon. Fire torches can then illuminate your stunning surroundings, but if you want to sleep under the stars you will need to step back on board and retire to the sun deck as the government does not permit overnight visitors to stay on any of the uninhabited islands.

Fishing is the way of life in the Maldives. From the decks of your yacht you can fish at sunrise when saltfish, dogtooth tuna, wahoo and red snapper mill beneath the surface. You might even spot one of the 20 or so species of whale and dolphin, including the mighty blue whale that arrives in the atolls in the early morning before leaving late afternoon to feed offshore at night.

Aboard Cloud 9 you will also have the opportunity to visit remote communities that most people cannot access. The Maldives have been home to a diverse range of cultures, from the Persians who sheltered in the calm waters while traveling on their trade route from India to Indonesia, waiting for the winds to change and take them home, to the Africans, British and Portuguese who have all left their mark, and a rich cultural heritage.

You'll find further idyllic atolls en route to the main island of Malé, which is where all international flights arrive and depart. The Lhaviyani Atoll is abound with uninhabited islands that are perfect for peaceful anchorages, fishing and snorkeling. Further south, the Baa Atoll has some amazing diving, especially around the grey reef shark breeding ground at Angu Faru. The dilemma in the Maldives therefore comes not in trying to find a remote island and spectacular dive site, but singling one out from the many.

MALDIVES ITINERARY

DAY 1 - Malé Atoll to Baa Atoll (66 nm)

Step aboard Cloud 9 in the Port of Malé. Although it is not strictly speaking a marina, it is the sole port of entry for the Republic of Maldives. As you spend your first night onboard, Cloud 9 will cruise to the Baa Atoll, famous for its plethora of coral islands and luxury resorts. Soneva Fushi Resort & Spa is the original Robinson Crusoe-style hideaway on the tropical island of Kunfunadhoo. Step ashore and dine in the gardens with local residents from neighboring Maahlos island for an insight into the local way of life. Contact Executive Chef Alex Gares, exch-fushi@sixsenses.com, or General Manager Laurie Burr, laurie@sixsenses.com.

DAYS 2 & 3 - Baa Atoll

Explore the underwater world of Kihadhuffaru Thila where you will find stingrays and nurse sharks swimming among schools of colorful fish. After working up an appetite, your crew can arrange a picnic on the uninhabited island of Gemendhoo. Anchor outside the Kudarikilu lagoon and take the tender ashore. Discover the local island life with a visit to the village schools and local markets, where locals weave traditional mats known as Thun'du kunaa.

DAY 4 - Baa Atoll to Ugulu, Raa Atoll (34 nm)

In the neighboring Raa Atoll, you can visit the island of Ugulu to discover the heritage site, Redhinge Usgandu. The island is surrounded by numerous anchorages that double up as great fishing spots.

DAY 5 - Vaadhoo Faru and Alifushi, Raa Atoll (18 nm)

Early morning dive in the waters surrounding Vaadhoo Faru before setting off for neighboring Alifushi.

Here you will find a traditional boat-building village.

DAY 6 - Raa Atoll to Maroshi, Shaviyani Atoll (34 nm)

From the Raa Atoll, cruise towards the Haa Dhaal Atoll, stopping en route at the Shaviyani Atoll. Here you will find the historic Haani Tree (Cordia Subcordata) on the island of Maroshi. The tree is a famous landmark dating back to the days of the Utheemu brothers' struggle against the Portuguese.

DAY 7 - Shaviyani Atoll to Haa Dhaalu Atoll (20 nm)

The Haa Daalu Atoll introduces you to further relics around Maamakunudhoo in the southeast - known as the graveyard of several ships, including the Persia Merchant wrecked in 1658, and the Hayston wrecked in 1819.

DAYS 8 & 9 - Haa Dhaalu Atoll to Utheemu, Haa Alif Atoll (24 nm)

The Haa Alif Atoll is the northernmost atoll of the Maldives. Here you can explore Utheemu, the birthplace of Sultan Mohamed Thakurufaanu and the residence of the legendary hero who freed the nation from the Portuguese.

DAYS 10 & 11 - Haa Alif Atoll to Shaviyani Atoll (70 nm - overnight) to Lhaviyani Atoll (55 nm)

Lunch on the uninhabited island of Ekulivaru in the Lhaviyani Atoll or spend a night ashore in a local home on the island of Naifaru.

DAYS 12 & 13 - Lhaviyani Atoll to Baa Atoll (39nm) to Rheeti Rah, Male Atoll (39 nm)

Dive at Angu Faru, breeding ground for grey reef sharks and a common habitat for turtles and schools of barracudas. Those who wish to spend their time reading under a palm tree are advised to step ashore at Rheeti Rah in the Male Atoll.

FREGATE ISLAND IN THE SEYCHELLES

SEYCHELLES

Diving, big-game fishing and water sports are also the order of the day in the Seychelles. Adrift in the Indian Ocean, the 115 equally postcard-perfect islands that make up the Seychelles archipelago are split into two groups. The Inner Islands consist of some 41 granite islands clustered around Mahé, the capital island. Some reach up to 3,280'/1,000m and offer dramatic and scenic coastlines. A handful of islands lie just off Mahé's eastern coast in a marine park, and slightly further afield there are several über-luxurious private islands, such as North Island to the northeast, and Fregate Island to the east, where you can step ashore and discover eco resorts at their best. The Seychellois government has adopted a concept of 'tourism with a conscience' and as such is a global inspiration when it comes to eco travel. Almost 50 per cent of the land is given over to conservation zones and a nature reserve and there are two UNESCO World Heritage sites: the endemic palm forest Vallée de Mai, on Praslin, is home to the famous pelvic-shaped coco-de-mer fruit, while the atoll of Aldabra has the world's largest population of giant tortoises. The latter isle is located in the Outer Islands, where precious few travel.

Formed of low-lying coral, these islands extend in an arc towards the coast of Africa. The Amirantes are the closest of the Outer Islands and lend themselves well to cruising with several spectacular atolls for snorkeling and diving. The Farquhar group, southwest of Mahé, is more exposed than the remaining two atolls of Aldabra and Cosmoledo, and there is pleasant shelter in the lagoon should you be able to enter. The massive Providence reef nearby provides some fantastic fishing and diving opportunities but it is the Aldabra group, some 630 miles/1,000km southwest of Mahé, which offers one of the most fascinating natural sites on earth. It consists of three atolls, Aldabra, Cosmoledo and Astove, and a limestone platform island Assumption. Aldabra is only accessible by sea and even then special permission is required for cruising. But should you secure the opportunity aboard Cloud 9, it is a wonderful experience.

ISLAND ITINERARY

DAY 1 - Mahé to Sainte Anne's Marine Park (4 nm)

Set against a backdrop of the spectacular mountains of Mahé, the Wharf Hotel & Marina is where you will board Cloud 9. With only a handful of berths for yachts over 98'/30m, the marina can accommodate yachts of up to 197'/60m. As you familiarise yourself with your new surroundings, cocktail in hand, Cloud 9 will cruise to the Marine National Park lying just off Mahé. Within the marine park there are several islands including Sainte Anne and Moyene – the latter of which is renowned for pirates' treasure and on which lives an eccentric Englishman who has been looking for treasure for more than 30 years.

DAY 2 - Mahé to Praslin Island (24 nm)

Awake for breakfast at anchor off Anse Lazio on the popular island of Praslin. One of the world's most photographed beaches, this is barefoot relaxation at its best. Wander along the pink coral beach or snorkel among the large granite boulders that are scattered along the shoreline. Bon Bon Plume is a small, secluded restaurant on the beach offering traditional Creole cuisine (lunch only). Step ashore and discover the endemic palm forest, Vallée de Mai – home to the famous pelvic-shaped coco-de-mer and today a UNESCO World Heritage Site. You might also be lucky enough to come across a Black Parrot. Golfing enthusiasts can spend the afternoon at the 18-hole championship golf course at the Lemuria Resort. Contact Golf Manager Olivier Morio, +248 281 230, golf@lemuriaresort.com.

DAY 3 - Praslin Island to La Digue Island (4 nm)

The following morning cruise around the twin islands of Cousin and Cousine. The latter is private, but cruising past you will witness an island undergoing a huge restoration programme to bring it back to its primal state. Between Praslin and La Digue you will also find a handful of large granite rocks where you can snorkel and see giant wrasse swimming around. Spend the afternoon discovering the nine miles of spectacular coastline of La Digue. Anchor off Coco Beach or Anse Source d'Argent – the latter of which is another of the world's most photographed beaches accessible only by boat or on land by bicycle. Step ashore and take a bike ride through the island's interior and stop at the bird sanctuary.

THE GENEROUS OWNER'S SUITE
© GUILLAUME PLISSON

DAY 4 - La Digue Island to Frégate Island (15 nm)

The verdant Frégate Island is home to the Seychelles' original luxury eco-hideaway. Once believed to have been the haunt of pirates, the private island has been transformed to its original ecological state and has welcomed back endangered birdlife, including the magpie robin and native reptiles, including the giant Aldabra tortoises. Step ashore to simply witness the birdlife before a treatment at the Rock Spa and dinner at the Plantation House restaurant. Contact Chairman Marc Aeberhard, +248 727 400.

DAY 5 - Frégate Island to The Sisters (11 nm)

The satellite islands around Praslin comprise Félicité, Marianne and the Sisters Islands. The islands are perfect for an afternoon of water sports followed by a peaceful anchorage. It is not unusual to see numerous turtles along the reefs in this area. Step ashore and discover a wealth of flora including delicate orchids, vanilla vines, and hibiscus amidst thousands of coconut palms.

DAY 6 - The Sisters to Aride Island to North Island (42 nm)

North Island is famous for its celebrity guest list but equally impressive is its dedication to preserving the environment in which it is located. Set in a climate of unabashed luxury, the private island resort is following in the footsteps of Frégate Island. Step ashore and enjoy Creole cuisine prepared by Executive Chef Neil Wager. Contact General Manager Martijn Brouwer, +248 293 100.

DAY 8 - North Island to Silhouette Island to Mahé (26 nm)

Anchor off Silhouette Island and take the tender ashore to discover the island's volcanic, mountainous terrain. Following a day exploring and enjoying the coastline, cruise back to Mahé and then spend a few nights at the Maia Luxury Resort and Spa.

MAIA, SEYCHELLES

Located on the main island of Mahé, the Maia Luxury Resort and Spa is ideally located for a few days ashore before or after a cruise of the Seychelles Inner Island archipelago. Set on the secluded Anse Louis beach, the resort's 30 villas offer maximum privacy and seclusion. All have views over the Indian Ocean, be it from the sheltered Ocean front villas, perfect for families, or the Ocean view, Ocean panoramic and Signature that share the unique position on the hillside overlooking the bay. Large terraces house dining areas, infinity pools, outdoor baths and day beds for lounging. Each villa has its own butler to attend to your every whim – be it in villa dining, organizing your spa treatment, or babysitting while you wander down to the open-air dining pavilion and beachfront bar.

READER OFFER: Elite Traveler readers can take advantage of Maia's exceptional cuisine and wine cellar as the resort is offering a special promotion where guests can enjoy one-night free and a complimentary dinner for two on each night (excluding beverages), based on a minimum stay of four nights. Guests will also receive unlimited diving. (Diving includes equipment hire and applies to introductory and exploration dives only. Private boat hire and dives can be organized at an additional cost. Offer valid until 25th December 2010) For further information on Maia, go to www.maia.com. For the 'Dine for free' offer, please contact Corinne Delpech, + 248 390 367.

VILLA AT THE SONEVA KIRI BEACH, THAILAND

THAILAND IS A WELL-ESTABLISHED HOT SPOT

THAILAND

Next stop, Thailand. A well-established travel hot spot, Thailand still retains its endemic appeal. On a seven-day cruise around its west coast islands, you can make the most of uninhabited islands, pristine beaches, amazing underwater life, and well-protected anchorages that make the Andaman Sea, with Phuket at its hub, the reigning maritime jewel of Southeast Asia.

As Thailand's largest island, Phuket has a wonderful concoction of culture – from pearl farms to colonial-style mansions to Chinese pagodas, Muslim mosques, and of course Buddhist temples. The largest and most beautifully ornate of these is the Chalong Temple – worth a visit for a touch of Thai history and culture. Try to arrange a morning visit on the weekly holy day when you can experience the monks chanting Buddhist scriptures. Phuket is the essence of Thailand; the perfect introduction to the wonderful sights, sounds and experiences that the country has to offer.

Step on board Cloud 9 and disappear to the surrounding islands in Phang Nga Bay. Most of the 100 islands in the bay are uninhabited, offering secluded anchorages under soaring cliffs fringed with jungle. The geology here varies from low, gently sloping hills to steep karst outcrops, some of which have been immortalized by the James Bond film The Man With The Golden Gun.

South of Phang Nga Bay lie the Phi Phi Islands. Phi Phi Don (hilly island) echoes the shape of a butterfly, half of which is scrub-covered cliff, the other half jungle-clad with coconut groves and palm-fringed beaches. The island is as stunning below the waterline as it is above, making it one of the finest diving spots in Southeast Asia. Neighboring Phi Phi Le (in the sea) is uninhabited and all the more wild.

Lying off the west coast of Thailand are the Similan Islands. These nine granite islands were named by Malay fishermen who plied the waters ('sembilan' means nine in Malay), but today they have a Marine National Park status and are preserved. Great boulders of smooth granite lie in jumbles along the shoreline – this is nature at its finest, but it is deeper down that nature really comes into its own.

Almost 50 nautical miles north of the Similan Islands lie the Surin Islands. The two main islands, Koh Surin Nua and Koh Surin Tai, are separated by a narrow strait with just a few small pockets of lush, exotic mangroves and scenic beaches nestled in its coves. Cloud 9 sets off in the early evening back to Phuket.

THAILAND ITINERARY

DAY 1 – Phuket

Board Cloud 9 in the Yacht Haven Marina Phuket. Situated on the northeastern side of the island, the marina is surrounded by tropical gardens and occupies a site of 200 acres overlooking the Pak Pra Channel. Here you will find restaurants and bars aplenty serving the 280 berths, which can accommodate yachts of up to 230’/70m.

DAY 2 – Phuket to Koh Phing Khan (20 nm) to Koh Panak & Koh Hong (18 nm)

Phang Nga Bay itself is not that large, but its many islands ensures that Cloud 9 can steer away from other yachts and discover hidden beaches and coves while the day-trippers flock to the more famous spots. Wait until late afternoon when the crowds have eased and discover the impressive site of Koh Phing Khan (James Bond Island), before a quiet anchorage at the neighboring Koh Panak, Koh Hong and Koh Naka Yai islands.

DAY 3 – Koh Hong to Phi Phi Islands (24 nm)

Rise early and take the kayaks through the Koh Hong and Koh Panak

caves to the large internal lagoons. The island of Koh Hong is a popular collection point for bird’s nest soup, a local delicacy, and you will see locals shimmying up the towering limestone walls on bamboo poles to capture the prized swallows’ nests.

Relax on board as Cloud 9 winds her way gently south to the Phi Phi islands for an overnight anchorage. The waters are abound with coral gardens providing a colorful playground for rare tropical creatures, soft corals and dramatic vertical walls that make for a diverse marine environment. Alternatively, you can scout your way around Phi Phi Le and its half-hidden coves and welcoming bays and then float in the millpond-calm shallows pooling beneath spectacular cliffs. You may chance upon Viking Cave where ancient rock paintings of boats line the walls.

DAYs 4 & 5– Phi Phi Islands overnight to Similan Islands (100 nm)

As you sleep, Cloud 9 will make her way across the calm seas to the Similan Islands. Here you can dive with whale sharks, leopard sharks and white tip and black tip sharks; even schools of pseudo orcas have been spied in this underwater world.

DAY 6 – Similan Islands to Surin Islands (48 nm)

The Similan Islands to the Surin Islands is a pleasant afternoon’s cruise. The shallow-water coral reefs here are perfect for snorkeling, while swirling in the deeper depths divers can chance across seldom-seen ribbon eels, crocodile fish and leaf fish.

DAY 7 – Surin Islands overnight to Phuket (92 nm)

Cruise back to Phuket and take the flight to Bangkok. After the serenity of life at sea, it’s fun to return to land for a touch of five-star luxury at Soneva Kiri, located in the Gulf of Thailand.

It may take a little more planning to charter further afield but the rewards are worth it and, after all, that's what your charter broker is there for – to assist you and arrange the ultimate charter for you. To this end, they will liaise with local agents to ensure that entry procedures go smoothly and that any visa requirements are handled efficiently. Your charter broker can also advise if there is an airstrip locally to accommodate your jet; and they can recommend whether you will need to charter helicopters or sea-planes to access Cloud 9 for certain areas.

Cloud 9 has all the latest telecommunications equipment on board and she carries numerous spare parts, with the most essential equipment being fitted with alarms to pre-warn of any problems. The yacht also has the latest security systems installed to ensure passengers' safety, which is the yacht's utmost priority when cruising distant shores.

There are only a few yachts that venture further afield to the Indian Ocean. Yachts will usually only be in this part of the world for a limited seasonal period and charters need to be booked well in advance. So if you are looking for an adventure this winter, catch Cloud 9 in the Seychelles, Maldives or Thailand.

Cloud 9 is available for charter through Camper & Nicholsons International, www.camperandnicholsons.com. Contact Charter Broker Barbara Dawson, +1 561 655 2127, bd@pal.cnyachts.com. Cloud 9 carries four sets of diving equipment that can be used by qualified divers. Due to strict protocols and local regulations, it is advised that guests should use local dive guides for all diving areas. This can be arranged through your charter broker.
