

CHARTER ADVENTURE
Clockwise from left: The alluring Illusion I is offering opulent Caribbean cruising for her maiden charter season; on deck aboard the 163-foot sailing yacht Ohana; the impressive Lamima, the world's largest wooden sailing vessel, is available for Indonesian exploration this winter season.

CARIBBEAN COOL

THE LANGUID DREAM OF ISLAND-HOPPING IN THE CARIBBEAN (OR BEYOND) THIS WINTER SEASON TAKES ON AN EVEN MORE LUXURIOUS BENT ABOARD ONE OF THESE HEAD-TURNING CHARTER VESSELS. ANCHORS AWEIGH!

By Mike Espindle

The Edge

Fresh from its debut with brokers Camper & Nicholsons at the Monaco and Antigua yacht shows, the 190-foot Benetti-built Illusion I is done attracting attention at the docks and will be plying warm Caribbean waters for her maiden charter season. Accommodating 12 guests in six cabins, including a breathtakingly massive master suite with a private study, the yacht's luxurious details—like a mosaic-tile Jacuzzi, a full bar and barbecue area, and a full gym—complement a stunning array of tenders, water toys, inflatables, and scuba and fishing gear. From $350,000 per week, CNI Palm Beach, 561.655.2121, camperandnicholsons.com

Full Sail

For luxurious cabin cruising, the brokers at Edmiston recommend the 163-foot, Fitzroy (New Zealand)-built Ohana. With a distinctive gray and yellow hull, Ohana will be easy to spot from shore for the 10 guests that enjoy her unique combination of contemporary comfort and wind-maximizing sailing performance (cruising speed of 12 knots, top speed of 18 knots). Minimalist modern interior and on-deck design dominates with themes of white, light woods and glass. Add in a Smuggler custom guest tender and a raft of eco-friendly water toys, and fun in the sun is a guarantee. Winter rates from $205,000 per week, Edmiston Yachts Monte Carlo, +377.93.30.54.44, edmiston.com
A Gentleman's Cruise

Make no mistake, behind Amphitrite's elegant, recently refitted 1930s vintage exterior lies a fully state-of-the-art charter yacht with all the latest and greatest toys and technology (including zero-speed stabilizers). Romance meets adventure for 10 guests who can appreciate her gilded, bohemian vibe (think art deco details, dark Honduran mahogany) as well as her edgy entertainment technology and collection of Ribeye tenders and water toys. Reportedly, Johnny Depp did. Winter rates from $126,000 per week, Burgess Yachts Miami, 305.672.0150, burgessyachts.com

More Exotic Shores?

International charter broker Camper & Nicholsons has announced that the newly built 214-foot Lamima, the largest wooden sailing vessel in the world, was delivered this autumn and is available for unforgettable charter experiences in Indonesia. The vision of designer Marcelo Penna, Lamima merges traditional Indonesian residential design with modern superyacht opulence for 14 guests (and the 19 crew members who attend to their every wish). Expect ample deck space for sunbathing and a shaded forward dining pavilion for exquisite meals of freshly caught fish. For adventurers, the vessel is scuba-certified for exploring the alluring sea life of Southeast Asia. $244,000 per week, CNI New York, 212.829.5652, camperandnicholsons.com